My new Secondary school:

Introduction

When you start secondary school, there are bound to be changes. Everyone who is starting Year 7 will be feeling nervous, and that's OK. It is completely normal to feel anxious about changes especially big ones. Knowing what to expect, talking about your worries and having a plan to manage anything that seems difficult can make changes a lot easier to cope with.

There will be lots of things that are different at your new school, but you may be surprised at how much will be very similar or the same.

This workbook will help you prepare to leave your primary school and move on to your new secondary school.

Stay motivated!

This is me now.

It will take some time to get used to my new school and different routines, and I have some work to do to get to my goal. I can make it but it will be challenging along the way. This is OK. My parents, staff in school and my friends will help and support me.

Coping with changes

Every day you deal with many small changes in your routines like going from being at home to being in school, changing between lessons, having different teachers. Sometimes there are unexpected changes such as your mum bought a different cereal for breakfast, your teacher swaps the lessons around, your friend is away or you have a supply teacher.

When the changes have happened before, you know what to expect and you can make a plan. If it is a change which you have not had before it can make you worry about what will happen next.

If this happens you can:

Take 10 deep breaths

Ask for information

Think about the new information

Stay calm

Make a plan
